A POTTED HISTORY

Signal Arts Centre was set up in July 1990 to address the lack of a focal point for the visual arts in Bray and North Wicklow generally and at the same time create a practical facility where artists could both develop their own work and contribute to the community in which they live. The long-term aim is to establish a permanent centre for the visual arts in north Wicklow which will act as a facility both for local artists and arts bodies as well as the general community. Signal operates a pro-active policy of making the arts and artists themselves readily accessible to the community as a resource, through outreach projects and activities organized in Signal itself. The Centre has made a significant impact in Bray, not only in the arts and educational fields but also as an addition to the town's basic tourism infrastructure.

In 1998 Signal incorporated as a non-profit making company to bring it into line with similar arts organisations throughout the country and to facilitate its proper development
